"..it has proved invaluable in our school."

To Whom It May Concern

Being a primary school teacher first and a person interested in computers second I was finding much of my time was being taken with maintaining our network of 50 odd computers.

As a primary school we unfortunately do not have the funding to employ a technician to carry out the tasks normally associated with running a network.

With such a large number of computers and students ranging from Year 1 through to Year 7 there were never ending problems with settings being changed, icons inadvertently being deleted or moved, toolbars disappearing, printer settings changing, files being deleted and so the list goes on.

As my role is to teach children NOT take on the role of technician our school was faced with a dilemma. Employ a technician on a limited budget or find an alternative.

Enter HDGUARD!! A very affordable alternative to ensuring the network runs error free!

Quite simply - ANY changes that are made to ANY settings or ANY files can be undone by shutting the computer down. At the end of the day when the computers are turned off everything returns to how they were originally set up.

Problem solved!! I can now concentrate on my teaching and the computers now run themselves!! What a blessing. Any teachers who discover something amiss only need to shut down or turn off the computer and the computer is miraculously fixed!

The back up support and help from the supplier, eye4You, was fantastic. Always available to provide any assistance during the initial set up and follow up contact to ensure all is running smoothly.

I have no hesitation in recommending this product as it has proved invaluable in our school setting and I would be confident it would be a very affordable solution for any school.
